April 2019

Will you play your part to build a nurturing community for all families? Everyone can play a part, here are some ideas:

- Reach out to get to know your neighbors
- Offer help to a new parent without judgment – bring a meal, offer to babysit, offer specific help
- Accept help when it is offered – the strongest people are those who use the resources around them
- Support an organization helping families in your community, such as the Good Samaritan Clothes Closet
- Encourage a child in your life to teach you something, like how to play a game
- Build or contribute books to a Little Free Library in your neighborhood
- Organize a neighborhood activity, like a park clean up or neighborhood block party
- Seek out new information about parenting – subscribe to a parenting magazine, contact your child’s doctor or teacher with questions, take a child development class in high school or college
- Host a Pinwheel making party or a Pinwheel Garden during Child Abuse Prevention Month
- Attend 90by30’s Regional Leadership Team events and meetings: see 90by30.com for all dates.

LOWELL SCHOOLS: We're on the Move...

Dear Community,

“We have almost survived another winter in Lowell. Knock on wood, we have been very blessed to have had only one delay and no closures yet this year. I realize that kids and staff alike love the “snow day” phone call in the morning but with the groundbreaking for the bond happening at the end of school, we need to ensure that our school year stays on schedule.”

The above quote is how I initially started my letter to you all in February.... As you now know, that backfired enormously! I am sorry about that and will take full responsibility for Snowmageddon 2019! However, we made it through the storm with minimal damage in the district and we are so thankful to all the staff and community members that stepped up and helped during the time of need.

As the storm took place, it became even more apparent what a great place this is to be. Whether it be community members and staff plowing streets, parking lots and driveways, supplying residents with warm meals during the day and the fire station opening their doors to allow the community to get warm and charge their devices – Lowell/Fall Creek is truly a remarkable community with even more remarkable people.

Currently, we are in the process of creating the budget for next school year. The governor proposed an $8.97 billion budget to the Ways and Means Committee which countered with an $8.87 billion budget. Although the $100 million seems like a huge gap, this is the closest they have been in years during this initial budgeting process. We will continue to keep our eyes on this very closely as we are building our budget based on these numbers. On another note, the board has approved the school calendar for next year. You can find it on our district website.

As far as the building projects are concerned, we had a pre-bid mandatory walkthrough which was very well attended. We will be opening bids in early April and awarding them shortly thereafter. Once this takes place, contracts need to be signed and the building renovation can finally begin. This has been an amazing learning experience to me, seeing all of the pre-building work that needs to take place before construction can begin. We are working diligently to ensure all i's are dotted and t's are crossed in order to be prepared for the construction to get underway. This will surely be a VERY busy year in the District. I would say looking back over the last five years, the staff and community have embraced the many changes that have taken place and everyone is excited to continue to make this district a desired destination for education.

On another note, I had the great pleasure to attend the College and Career Readiness night at the High School on March 20th. It was amazing to see all of the very talented students we have in this district. The students were in peak form during the performances courtesy of the drama and music department. Their performances were incredible and it fills me with joy knowing that I get to watch each student grow on a daily basis. Well done Lowell Jr/Sr High students and staff. Truth be told....I may have shed a tear or two during the powerful performances!

Vince Lombardi once said, “Perfection is not attainable. But, if we chase perfection, we can catch excellence.” As a school district, we will continue to strive for perfection, knowing full well that if we continue to do so we will reach excellence. Not only are we on the move, we are well on our way!

Sincerely, Johnie Matthews, Superintendent, Lowell School District

Lowell Varsity Softball

Lowell Softball sports 10 players who must be very tough this season. Even with the small turnout, we are showing signs of improvement early. League play begins after spring break and should be very interesting.

MVA Students Mind Their Manners

Mountain View Academy’s 2019 manners dinner was a great success. Students displayed the manners they had learned in class and had a fun time doing so. A huge THANK YOU to Billy Reid and his staff for putting together a delicious dinner.

Mountain View Academy is a K-8 charter school sponsored by the Lowell School District — believing in options for parents!

GEAR Up Showcase a success!

Thanks to all who attended the GEAR Up Student Showcase and Financial Aid night. Parents and students who attended were treated to a Pizza dinner with drama and music performances. Student showcase work included college fair and science fair displays. Student photography and art work was also displayed. Parents also had the option of attending a financial aid workshop.

Mt. West Music Festival in Lowell

Cost is $3.

So you think you can act?
